MATUL Resources

150 Essential Books for the MATUL

Viv Grigg, 10 April 2010, rev Dec 2010, rev June 2011
(from the course outlines submitted from the four schools. Always in process, please send you best suggesitons)   .

The following have been identified as essential reading for the MATUL Program for Course Designers and all students at some point during the program. These answer the question, "If over two years I was able to read 150 books on holistic churchplanting movements and transformational mission among the urban poor, what would they be?"

Each school is requested to evaluate the master list of 800 books and identify what you think are core texts and return to the coordinator, so this list can be updated. This list does not include the local literature which is developed as separate lists, unless that literature is significant globally and accessible.

Someone needs to go through and update these to the most recent publication dates, and find out the prices. Each school needs to have their faculty go through and indicate what they feel are the critical texts for their course. Such lists will always be evolving.

All references are to be in APA 6 format. It is highly recommended that you use Endnote to format references then set its output to APA 6.

This should be reviewed along with the lists of indigenous course materials from India, Africa, Philippines.

Overall Integration of the Program

The logical starting place would be the life of Kagawa of Japan who modelled both incarnational ministry and societal transformation from an evangelical base:
- Davey, Cyril. (2000). Saint in the Slums: Kagawa of Japan. Jersey City: Parkwest Publications.

This would be followed by the theology and practice of holistic churchplanting in the slums:
- Grigg, Viv. (2004). Companion to the Poor. Monrovia, CA: Authentic Media.

And that would be complimented by the theology and practice of holistic ministry that is the basis of much Christian development agency thinking known as "holistic ministry". Articles on diverse aspects of slum theology in a reader of diverse articles with a global view of slum issues:
